Dear Reader:

This issue completes Volume 24. I hope the Journal of Extra-Corporeal Technology has provided you with useful and interesting information pertinent to your clinical practice. Perhaps some of the articles prompted you to evaluate your techniques and equipment and explore new ways of delivering quality perfusion.

I hope the basic research papers dealing with fundamental problems of cardiopulmonary bypass were of interest also. Perfusion continues to be a dynamic and evolving science and through the journal we can share new information as it becomes available.

Please take a few minutes to fill out and return the enclosed “How are we doing?” card. Your feedback is a crucial part of planning the format and content of the journal and is always encouraged and welcomed.

Sincerely,
Phyllis Palmer, CCP
